In this docket, Rhode Island Energy filed for approval of the Company’s Advanced Metering Functionality (AMF) Business Case program proposal. The proposal includes a full scale deployment of AMF across its electric service territory in Rhode Island intended to replace existing electric automated meter reading (AMR) meters. The proposal includes capital spending and recovery through rates for expenses associated with meters, software, communications and other operating expenses.

Rhode Island Energy seeks additional revenues in the amount of approximately $199.6 million to fund the incremental cost associated with the AMF through a separate factor outside the base distribution rates (AMF Factor) over eleven years, 2023 through 2033. The AMF factor would recover the actual incremental capital investments placed in service and the actual incremental operation and maintenance (O&M) costs incurred on a historical basis.

The filing may be examined at the PUC’s office. The filing can also be accessed at <https://ripuc.ri.gov/Docket-22-49-EL>. Reference is made to R.I. Gen. Laws §§ 39-1, 39-3 and 42-35.
